

Relics of St. John Paul II Draw Crowds for Veneration

The arrival of relics belonging to St. John Paul II sparked a surge of devotion at the Chapel in the college. Encased in a reliquary, the relics, which included a relic of the tunic worn by the pope were displayed for veneration. Throughout the day, a steady stream of faithful students offered prayers and reverently touched the reliquary, seeking the saint's intercession and reflecting on his life of service. The presence of the relics fostered a spirit of unity and piety, reminding those present of St. John Paul II's enduring legacy.
