A short narration of the program
Paper Craft Workshop: “Creative Reuse – Best Out of Waste” In alignment with its commitment to environmental sustainability and creative pedagogy, St. Vincent College, Pune, successfully organized a Paper Craft Workshop on October 6, 2025. The event was conceptualized to promote the ethos of “Best Out of Waste” by encouraging students to transform everyday paper waste into aesthetically pleasing and functional art pieces. The workshop served as a hands-on platform to foster eco-consciousness, creativity, and resourcefulness among participants. The college had the privilege of hosting Mr. Raju, an experienced and passionate paper craft enthusiast, as the Resource Person for the session. With a dynamic and engaging teaching style, Mr. Raju demonstrated a variety of paper-based decorative techniques using minimal tools and recycled materials. He began the session by introducing the principles of upcycling and the environmental impact of paper waste, setting a thoughtful context for the creative activities that followed. Throughout the workshop, Mr. Raju guided students through step-by-step instructions to create an array of paper decorations—including wall hangings, greeting cards, floral arrangements, and festive ornaments—using discarded newspapers, old magazines, used notebooks, and packaging paper. A significant highlight of the session was his origami demonstration, where he taught foundational folds and progressed to crafting intricate models such as cranes, boxes, and modular stars. His emphasis on precision, patience, and imagination resonated deeply with the attendees.

The workshop was attended by a diverse group of students from various departments, all of whom participated with enthusiasm and curiosity. Many expressed appreciation for learning practical, low-cost, and eco-friendly alternatives to commercial décor, especially in the context of college festivals, home celebrations, and community events. The interactive format allowed participants to experiment freely, ask questions, and showcase their creations by the end of the session.

This initiative underscored St. Vincent College’s ongoing dedication to sustainable development and experiential learning. By integrating environmental awareness with artistic expression, the workshop not only imparted valuable skills but also inspired a mindset shift toward mindful consumption and creative reuse. The event concluded with a vote of thanks to Mr. Raju for his insightful and inspiring guidance, and to the organizing team for their seamless coordination.

The success of the Paper Craft Workshop reaffirms the institution’s belief that small, conscious actions—when multiplied across a community—can lead to significant environmental impact. It is hoped that such initiatives will continue to empower students to become stewards of sustainability in both personal and professional spheres.
