A short narration of the program
Parent-Teacher Meeting at St. Vincent College St. Vincent College recently conducted a Parent-Teacher Meeting aimed at fostering communication and transparency between the college and the parents. The event was well-attended, reflecting the mutual interest in ensuring the holistic development of the students. One of the key highlights of the meeting was the introduction of WhatsApp groups for each class, enabling parents to stay connected with the faculty and receive real-time updates on their children’s progress and college activities. This initiative was praised by the parents, as it facilitated direct communication with the college and provided a platform for discussing academic and non-academic matters. The college administration outlined the various initiatives taken for the benefit of the students, including academic support systems, extracurricular programs, and counselling services. Parents were made aware of the steps the college is taking to ensure a balanced and enriching educational experience, including programs that help students improve their academic performance, physical fitness, and emotional well-being. During the meeting, the faculty explained the new National Education Policy (NEP) and its implications for the students. The parents were familiarized with the interdisciplinary approach promoted by the NEP, which gives students the flexibility to explore diverse subjects, enhancing their academic and professional growth. Career opportunities available to student’s post-graduation were also discussed, with an emphasis on internships, industry exposure, and skill development programs that the college facilitates.

The meeting also addressed avenues for developing soft skills, which are essential for students in the competitive job market. Workshops, personality development programs, and leadership opportunities provided by the college were highlighted, ensuring that students are well-rounded individuals ready to face real-world challenges.

Parents were encouraged to provide feedback, and many expressed their appreciation for the meeting and the college's efforts in nurturing their children's academic and personal growth. They offered valuable suggestions to further improve communication and enhance student support systems, which were duly noted by the faculty.

The Parent-Teacher Meeting concluded on a positive note, strengthening the collaborative relationship between parents and the college and ensuring that the students receive the best possible support both at home and in their academic environment.
